Senate Troop-Cut Moves Crushed in Early Tests

Proposals Would Halve U.S. Force in Europe

By Spencer Rich

WASHINGTON, May 19 (WP).—The Nixon administration won smashing victories today in initial Senate votes on proposals to cut U.S. forces in Europe.

The Senate first rejected, by a 63-25 roll call, a revised version of Majority Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment to cut in halffrom 300,000 to 150,000-the U.S. contingent in NATO by Dec. 31, 1971.

Then, by 81-13, the Senate killed an amendment by Sen, Birch Bayh. D., Ind.; Sen. William Saxbe, R., Ohio and Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D., Conn., to cut U.S. forces to 150,000 in two steps by the end of 1973 unless the European allies agree to defray $325 million annually in U.S. NATO costs.

The first vote came on a revision, sponsored by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D., Wis, and endorsed by Sen, Mansfield. It provided for a reduction to 250.000 by June 30, 1972, to 200,000 one year later, and to 150,000 by June 30, 1974.

It provided that the first of these cuts-but not the later ones could be canceled if the Warsaw Pact and NATO opened talks Sept. 30 this year toward mutual troop reductions.

Sen. Nelson said this would give the President a substantial amount of time to negotiate cuts with the Russians before having to make any under the provision's requirements.

But Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Stennis, D. Miss., told the Senate that the amendment simply sent the United States into negotiations with the position that the Russians, by refusing to negotiate, could trigger the mandatory U.S. cuts. Sen. Stemmis and administration spokesmen like the Republican leader Sen Wirth Sent of Neurophysics and administration spokesmen like the Republican leader. Sen, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, and the whip, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, said this would put the United States in theludicrous position of saying in effect, "Either you agree to nego-tiate or we'll cut back unilaterally."

Neither Sen. Nelson nor Sen. Mansfield made the obvious counter-argument-that the Russians had a great stake in ob-taining a permanent, mntually-agreed-upon reduction that Congress would not be likely to rescind. This would free them from the enormous cost of heavy troop loads in central Europe and could open the way toward a further reduction of U.S. So-With tensions.

On the vote, doves such as Frank Church, D., Idaho, Edmund S. Muskie, D., Maine, and Edward M. Kennedy, D. Mass., opposed the Mansfield position, citing the need to negotiate any cutback on a mutual den and reduce the U.S. load

"No recommendation has been sahmitted, nor has any discussion been held in the cabinet, on the issue of the determination of borders," Mrs. Meir replied.

But in answer to other questions she said Israel has informed the United States it will not agree to a withdrawal to the borders which existed before the 1987. Middle East war, as U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers proposed on Dec. 9, 1969. Asked if Israel had informed $96,000 a year. The Queen Mother receives $168,000 a year and Princess Margaret $36,000. The queen did not specify the sort of raise she expected, but to keep in step with the cost of living she would need an 85 percent increase, according to a Buckingham Palace spokesman. It was Prince Philip who publicly raised the question of royal poverty in November, 1969, when he told an American television andience that the queen's budget was running in the red. The problem of the royal budget has stirred embarrassment among royalists and some sarcasm among anti-monarchists.

One of the staunchest anti-monarchists in Parliament, William Hamilton, a Scottish Labor member who has made royalty his special target for years, is expected to serve on a special committee that will now examine the queen's finances. The committee is expected to complete its study by July.

The Civil List covers salaries for a palace staff of 390, housekeeping and annuities for some inyal relations.

The queen has vast properties in her own name-one guess was that they are worth upwards of $145 million-but the income from these goes into the public treasury.

Only France had a truly European conception. De Gaulle told Mr. Wilson, adding that he had not said no to Britain, only that more time was needed.

Four years have passed .since that summit, and tomorrow Mr. Heath will answer the same questions. Are the British "European" enough for Europe? Are they ready to renounce much of their past, many of their ways, Atlanticism, the Commonweath and join Europe—the place, as a recent British poll emphasized, where the wogs begin. They weren't a waye so "Euro-beau."

There had been hope imme-diately following World War II that Britain would join the battered nations of the Continent in a political union. Winston Churchill, in his famous speech at the University of Zurich, in 1946, callea for Europe to "arise," and announced, "We must build a United States of Europe." Apart from two defense pacts, however -the Brussels Pact (later the Western European Union) and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization-little came of it.

It was not until 1948, when 800 prominent Europeans met at The Hague to discuss political steps, May 5, 1949, in London, the Coun-cil of Europe was born, which was to be the nucleus for the future United States of Europe. It never lived up to the hopes of the federalists, and turned into little more than a debating club.

Both sides envisage these discussions to revolve around the idea after-dinner meeting at the Qual d'Orssy at which he was spirited away into a private room by of some future partial withdrawal of American troops and changes in the balances of power within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. There already has been some discussion in recent Common Market political meetings of the eventual creation of a Common Market "bloc" within NATO.

Mr. Pompidou will also bring up his plan for a European confederation for a Heath reaction. .tn In his telecast to the British Monday night he emphasized that this was the only logical way to ference, De Gaulle repeated that Britain still was not ready to

The document, which a group called the Citizens Commission to investigate the FBI says it stole from the Media, Pa., office of the federal agency, praised the Rochester experiment as a "positive-program" to reduce crime. The Rochester program amount-ed to nothing more than the distribution of a pamphlet at a 1969 scout rally suggesting that scouts keep alert for signs of frouble. There was no "followup," no organization of a para-police agency among the scouts,

Boy Scout officials said. In Rochester yesterday, Gene Cruse, the local scout enecutive, said the pamphlet was prepared by the Rochester Emergency Ser-vices Committee, which included the local and state police, the first department, sheriff's office, Coast Guard, the FBI, the poison con-irol center and Civil Defense.

'Suspicious Strangers'

"The scouts were asked to report such things as faulty traffic signs, blown-out street lights, he signs, blown-out street lights, fires, trees blown down, flooded viaducts, suspicious strangers in neighbors' h o m e s, suspicious strangers loitering about schools." Asked if scouts were required to "snoop," Mr. Cruse said: "Hell no, they would report to police only as participating citizens." In New Brunswick, Alden G.

Barber, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, said: "With our emphasis on citizen-ship and character-building, the Boy Sconts of America does help boys be prepared for emergencies. This includes having a boy know where he can go or call to get help for emergencies like fires, traffic accidents, break-ins or vandalism which endanger the lives and property of parents and

The U.S. delegation, headed by Donald L. McKernan of the Department of State, traveled aboard the Coast Guard cotter

Duane to a rendezvous point near the Nantucket lightship, 80 miles southeast of Boston, for the talks aboard the Soviet factory ship Enyke, a floating processing plant for the 120-vessel Soviet fleet. Several of the lobstermen, after a late-night meeting with Mr. McKernan, expressed dissatisfaction with what they regard as lack of positive action on the part of the State Department. Kevin Koltz said: "They're going to have to take action some time or other, and that's just what they don't want to do." Mr. McKernan said he would "point out to the Soviets in very strict words if neces-sary . . . the adverse effect they are bringing on American fisher-men and that we expect them to cooperate."

Drug Expert Urges Research By U.S. for a 'Safe Intoxicant' WASELINGTON, May 19 (AP) -A doctor suggested yesterday government research to develop some sort of safe drug to meet an apparent need in society for intoxicants.

Dr. Donald B. Louria, who said marijuana legalization should be considered only after taking several more research steps, told the Presidential Commission on Marijuana and Dangerous Drugs that Congress should give the National Institutes of Health perhaps $5 million to develop a safe intoxicant.

Dr. Louria did not describe what the drug should be, saying only that the government should "develop an intoxicant to give people the pleasure they need."

Least Amount of Damage

"If society needs drugs, isn't it an obligation to develop drugs that do the least amount of damage?" asked Dr. Louria, a drug specialist and chairman of the public health department at the New Jersey College of Medicine.

Stanford law Prof. John Kaplan told the commission, which must make recommendations on marijuana by next March, that present marijuana laws are unenforceable, a joke comparable to prohibition days.

"We're not winning the war against marijuana. There is no light at the end of the tunnel," Prof. Kaplan said. "We cannot stem the flow of marijuana into this country.

"People are learning to grow high-grade marijuana in closets. All you need is a seed and a sumlamp."

Smuggling on Rise, Official Savs

WASEINGTON, May 19 (WP) .- The smugging of marijuana and hashish into this country is increasing "at an unprecedented rate" despite expanded efforts to control it, the U.S. commissioner of customs said yesterday. Most of the "singglers," Myles J. Ambrose told the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, are young college students or dropouts, "generally affluent and well educated.

"We are catching so many more of these that it's disgraceful," he said

Nevertheless, he continued, the students are "iremendously ingenious. Their fathers didn't send them to college without them learning something." Some have even cut their long hair "to avoid the hippie image," Mr. Ambrose said

"The silence paid off," Mr. Rizzo said late last night. Rep. Green attacked Mr. Rizzo for refusing to debate the issues. He also assailed him as an ineffective police commissioner, not-ing that the crime rate has risen sharply in Philadelphia. He offered plans to control mounting gang warfare, to go after narco-tics pushers and organized crime and to provide rehabilitation rather than police repression for addicts

Mr. Rizzo started his campaign with a reservoir of devoted sup-porters who credited him with preventing the sort of rioting by blacks that plagued other cities a few years ago. His organiza-tion issued "position papers" on issues, from his downtown cam-

U.S.Spent $4.2 Million Quelling D.C. Protests

WASHINGTON, May 19 (UPI). -The Defense Department said yesterday that it spent $1.2 million helping control the spring anti-war demonstrations in the capital.

This pushed to more than $4.2 million the amount government agencies say they spent in dealing with the demonstrators. Earlier, the District of Columbia government estimated it spent $2.5 million, and the Interior Department said its costs would exceed $500,000.

One More 5-Megaton Blast

Lower-Megaton Tests Hinted Guilty Verdict In AEC Environment Report Seen Certain

By Thomas O'Toole

WASHINGTON, May 19 (WP) -The Atomic Energy Commission's five-megaton weapons test this fall will be its last on Alaska's Amchitks Island, suggesting that the "Cannikin" test is the only underground weapons test the United States plans in the multimegaton range.

"After the successful completion of Cannikin the AEC intends to vacate Amchitka," the AEC says in the draft of a 40-page environmental statement to the White House. "Beyond success-ful completion of Cannikin, the AEC does not have any plans for future underground nuclear test-ing on Amchitka, although this does not preclude such plans should a future need arise."

Scheduled for the first week of October, Cannikin is understood to be a test of an enlarged version of the warhead for the Spartan anti-ballistic missile. The fact that the AEC plans only one such test raises several questions about future testing plans and the size of Spartan warheads.

Cannikin is being conducted in Alaska because Amchitka is the only place the AEC feels it can safely detonate weapons as large as five megatons. Its regular testing grounds in Nevada are too close to cities such as Las Vegas to test weapons larger than one or two megatons

Nevada Escalation?

"It's possible the AEC plans to escalate the Nevada tests from one to two megatons," one source close to the commission said, "On the other hand, it might simply mean that the AEC feels it can get everything it needs out of

Etna Lava Still Heading For Village

SANT'ALFIO, Sicily, May 19 (Reuters). -- Mount Etna lava today devoured terraced vineyards and hazelnut groves where the 2.000 people of this farming village prayed yesterday for a miracle to halt the tide of lava. The broad river of the main lave flow is now only 1.5 miles above Sant'Alfio, which stands directly in its path. But the flow is moving slowly. Throughout today the vil-lagers flocked to their churches, still praying for the lava to stop—as it did in 1928 only yards from Sant'Alfio.

Experts here express doubt that the Java will engulf Sant'Alfio. They say that at its present rate it will take 12 to 15 days to reach the village, and before then it could cool down and solidify. The smoking stream seems to have passed ifely by another threat

Ceylon Rebel Leader Vows No Surrender by Students

By Eric Pace

In the second month of the Ceylonese student rebellion, a self-styled spokesman for the rebels has emerged here. His code name is "Tilak," which means jewel in Sinhalese, and he is busy looking up Western journalists here while the Ceylonese authorities are trying to hunt him down. "We will never surrender." the youthful Tilak cried during a two-hour interview in which he gave what he said were details of the rebels' organization and Distibower.

In the interview, and in others with Western journalists, Tlak gave no proof of his identity beyond his ready tongue. But some young Ceylonese journalists said privately that he was the rebels' bons fide spokesman. And the Ceylonese security forces gave signs of being very eager to ar-rest him.

Tlak's statements have aroused particular interest within the Colombo government and the diplomatic community because the rebel movement has been virtually mute since it came out into the open last month. This its critic

'Candy Is Dandy' NEW YORK (NYT) .- "The only two lines I've ever written which I think have any chance of surviving me," Ogden Nash once said, "were two lines written in my unregenerate youth." Mr. Nash, who in a highly productive, 40-year writing career became the nation's best-known producer of humorous verse, re-ferred to his now-classic "Reflections on Ica-Breaking":

Candy is dandy But Houor is quicker.

The lines probably were Mr. Nada's most familiar, but he was no doubt indulging in excessive modesty when he prohoumost them his sole claim to fame.

For Mr. Nash was considered hy many of his admirers to be a sort of Abraham Lincoln of poetry, and they called his mangled verse an emancipation proclamation for all would-be poets who harbored the illusion that poetry had to follow some strict-law of rhyme and meter. She was first with many fashions, including sheathing women in jungle-print underwear or wrapping their heads with leo-pard chiffon scarves. She foresaw caftans, costume jewelry and the gyspy look long before anybody else. She also invented fashions. One day, she wore a gold and pearl earring on one ear. a ruby and diamond one on the other. Herstaff thought she was being absent-minded. Not at all. She had just dreamed up a new fashion, which, eventually ended up in Vogue.

Although she warned her copywriters against using the word "elegance as if it were salt to be sprinkled on everything," she had her own, very personal idea of elegance. "It's a thing of bone and spirit. It exists in animals like the gazelle. Audrey Hepburn and a few people have ft."

DINING OUT Classic Restaurant in Stockholm

By Jan Sjöby

STOCKHOLM-For a couple of decades, buildozers and wrecking crews have been gnawing their way through much of central Stockholm, sweeping before them many of the classic places to dine. They are being replaced, gradually, by self-service grill bars, imitation pubs and pizzerlas and expensive steak houses, all decorated in the latest Scandinavian Modern.

It is good to know that the old Restaurant Cattelin is still in business. The house opened in the late 1800s as a conditoris, a coffee house specializing in fancy pastries. Among the early steadies for coffee and cream cakes was Oscar II, grandson of Maré-chal Bernadotte and grandiather to Sweden's present King Gustaf VI Adolf. The place, naturally, was in from the beginning.

In 1926, one Monsieur Cattelin arrived from Paris, acquired the premises and turned them into a French-style restaurant. With his French knowhow, he made it even more in: Painters and poets. nostalgically remembering their wild-oats student days in Paris, made the Cattelin their headquarters. Dark-suited civil servants from the neighboring government offices realized that a touch of garlic with the meat wasn't actually fatal.

"Don't get it wrong," says Harry Uhr, the man who took over when Mr. Cattelin retired in 1943, "This isn't a snob foint. Anyone is welcome, with or without a tie. But

Justly famous on the hors d'ouvre menu is the Baltic fried herring-a special Swedish delicacy-in effect a meal in itself at slightly less than a dollar, Alternatives are smoked salmon, smoked eel or smoked reindeer steak, among others

The real come-hither is a tray of six snails bourguignonne at half the regular Stockholm price. "Our snails don't come out of a can" Mr. Uhr declared, "We raise them ourselves and we prepare them ourselves."

On the standard menu are such international dishes as sole meuniere, scampi fritti à l'estragonserved with delicious deep-fried parsley -- Chatesubriand with French fries and Bearnaise sauce, naella Valenciana and the specialty of the house, coeur de fliet Provencale

But on the carte du jour, with some luck, one may find Scandinavian items such as venison ragout in red wine with mushrooms or snow ptarmigan in cream sauce with rowanberry jam.

Outdoor Terrace The Cattelin has expanded through the years and it now occupies the ground floors of a number of buildings in the historic Old Town. To the right of the entry hall and the hat check counter is the "fine room" with white table cloths and elaborate fin-de-siècle decor, more or less reserved for those with reservation connected to the main restaurant by mysterious passages, is the bakficka (the "back pocket"), a small, tavern-like room, specializinz in fish and game. Lots of Stockholmers prefer the quiet airs of the bak/icka to the busy atmosphere of the main restaurant.

The wines at the Cattelin are carefully selected and, as usual in Sweden, ressonably priced. A carale of Spanish red wine costs about $1.20, a bottle of Muscadet about $3. A Château de Ferrand St. Emilion '62 will run about $4. Cattelin's secret: Excellent a half has gone by since that stirring adventure in the skies during which a cool and level-headed TWA pilot, Capt. Donald. J. Cook jr., saved his jetliner, his crew and his passengers from a mentally disturbed hijacker armed with a carbine, a knife and a pistol-and also, incidentally, from a pack . of FBI agents at the Kennedy International Airport in New York who made a clumsy if well-intentioned attempt to rescue him. Thanks to the captain's good humor and good sense, a nightmare that might have ended in disaster ended instead at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci international airport with the plane, the crew and the passengers unharmed. The hijacker, Raffaele Minichiello, an AWOL Marine corporal, was picked up later by the Italian police. Pretty nearly everybody who read about the affair regarded Capt. Cook as a hero; we sald editorially, and meant it, too, that "we would nominate him for some high office-any office. in fact-if we didn't like to think of him flying planes up there. We'd go anywhere with Captain Cook."

Unfortunately, the captain did one thing that was impolitic. He criticized the FBL Referring in an interview after the incident was over to the rescue attempt in New York, he said. "The FBI plan was damned near a prescription for getting the entire crew kliled and the plane destroyed." The consequence of this lese majesté was that the director of the FBI wrote a letter to TWA. "touching, among other things," in the words of the airline's board chairman, Charles C. Tillinghast jr., "on Captain Cook's 'difficulties in the Air Force' prior to his employment with TWA." What these difficulties may have been, if any, we do not know. We do know, however, that if Mr. Hoover had access to such information

Who would think that a whole year and as a result of his official position, he certainly had no business making use of it for personal reprisal

It has been alleged that Mr. Hoover made attempts "to discourage FBI personnel from flying TWA" and "to prevent any service by FBI personnel on TWA flights," In a letter urging investigation of the whole affair by the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights, Sen. George McGovern has 'charged that Mr. Hoover's action "constitutes a violation of the Civil Rights Act, the First Amendment right of free speech, and the Ninth Amendment right to privacy, "plus" a clear violation of Air Force regulations covering the disclosure of information concerning Air Force personnel, and a violation of exceptions to the Freedom of Information Act."

Well, that's a pretty large indictment. Without endorsing all of it, we are prepared to say simply that what Mr. Hoover has done seems to embrace the essential elements of what is commonly called "dirty pool." Mr. Hoover was charged, and very circumstantially, too, with employing the same sort of tactics against the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King-that is, using his official powers to dig up some irrelevant but nevertheless injurious information aboot a man who had dared to criticize the FBI and then leaking it where it could be calculated to do his critic the most harm.

We congratulate Mr. Tillinghast on appearing to be the kind of board chairman who deserves just the kind of tough, cool and courageous pilot he appears to have in Capt. Cook. And we suggest to Mr. Hoover and to Attorney General Mitchell that if they really want to know why there is so much 'paranoia" about the FBI on and off Capitol Hill, they need only review the details of this unpleasant story.

Local Setback for the Tories

International Opinion

Britain's Conservative party returned to power in 1970 promising to curb soaring inflation and strikes. Instead prices have continued to rise at an annual rate of 9 percent. strikes are at an all-time peak this year and unemployment rocketed last month to its highest April figure since 1940.

These facts largely account for the Labor party's nationwide victory in local elections that far exceeded its fondest hopes. In Britain local elections are normally more of a referendum on national government performance than a test on local issues. Such a test for Prims Minister Heath's government after only 11 months in office may Labor's unexpected general election defeat last year.

Mr. Heath still commands a majority of thirty in the House of Commons, however, and is unlikely to be blown off course even if the pro-Labor trend continues through several impending parliamentary by-elections. What the defeat does do is to impair the government's prestige just as it is preparing for a hard struggle in Parllament and country to win sanction for Britain's membership in the European Economic Community, assuming that the negotiations can be completed in Brussels next month.

It is also at least a minor blow for Mr. Heath personally as he begins the important talks in Paris this week with President Pompidou, talks that could bridge the gaps on most of the issues yet to be resolved for British entry. The local elections were emphatically not about Britain's bld for membership in the Common Market, however, and only the more trresponsible among the opponents of entry would even suggest that they were.

and they wonder whether Washington is really thinking about these problems eo close to home. For the generation since the last World War, Canada has produced a remarkable company of politicians and civil servants who have helped to reconcile the differences between the Communist and the Western worlds. Letters

The Vietnam POWs

The writer of this letter is international representative of an organization called American Prisoners of War and Missing in Action in Southeast Asia. Her son, a U.S. Marine captain, has been missing in Vietnam for more than five years.

Hanoi Radio has announced that Hanoi will accept 570 of their seriously sick and wounded from the prisons of South Vietnam. I understand that this acceptance will take place "at sea" on June 4th.

This is an extremely significant move for it is the first, absolutely the first, showing of any humanitarian concern, by the North Vietnamese, for any prisoners of war. They have been as callous and intransigent regarding their own men as they have been about the American prisoners and missing and their families.

This is an important first for another reason. And that is that this is the first time, the only time, the North Vietnamese have accepted any proposals apropos the negotiations in Paris. This can be, this must be, the turning point for real progress at the Paris peace talks.

If the North Vietnamese can bring themselves to acknowledge and abide by the hrmanitarian concepts of the Geneva Convention relative to the treatment of prisoners of war they may be more acceptable in our world of civilized nations. Of course, there is yet to be a first for the Viet. Cong and the Pathet Lao, whose inhumane attitudee have also been so apparent in Paris. If asked how this affects us.

since our son has been known only as Missing in Action for ever five years, I would have to reply as follows: we have no proof of either his death or his survival; therefore, IF the American seriously sick and wounded were ever released he could be. one of those men. We are working for the repatriation, in a neutral country, of all prisoners held captive for a long period of time, due to the Vietnam conflict, and IF that ever happens. eur son would surely qualify in that category IF he lived. If our son did not survive, which we acknowledge as a possibility, our efforts will not have been in vain. It will be gratifying to know that we have helped obtain the release of other gallant men. who did survive. While our anxieties and sorrows are deeply felt and personal. we still had to consider the welfare of all our Amer-

our responsibilities, too. As American citizens we could do no less. As the proud parents of a fine young man, who freely offered his life in the service of his country, how could we do less? How could we be less honorable or less brave than he and the other fine men like him? Our son had braveled extensively in both the free and the Communist world and he saw, understood and felt the difference be-

Athens Looks Outward

Greece's foreign-policy moves have not been confined to its immediate neighbors. A trode protocol has been signed with China. and it is extending GATT-breaking trade terms to the Soviet Union. In addition there have been visits by senior ministers to such African countries as Ethiopia and Egypt. The sim is to be able to boast of an independent foreign policy, undictated by the outside. It comes, too, in the face of enforced withdrawai from the Council of Europe in December. 1969. It acts as a useful prod to remind the United States to keep in closer political and military touch-with NATO and the Sixth Fleet in mind. Nevertheless, Greece's choice of countries in its search for respectability and acceptance as a normal state remains odd. It is limited, too. For any logical extension of its relations with these new friends chould lay it open to criticisms of hob-nobbing with the very forces of chaos which the junta claims to have forestalled in its coup four years ago. -From The Guardian (London).

The Shakeup in Cairo

The current, not necessarily final, shakeop in Cairo is part of a struggle for power and influence, an effort to push through a particular domestic and foreign policy.. Two notable "socialist" ideologues have lost their posts, which may indicate that President Sadat is anxious to maintain a pragmatic stance in the economic boildup which he has long advocated. As to the conflict with Israel, recent official Egyptian statements have notably failed to mention this issue. It may be concluded that Sadat, Premier Mahmoud Fawzi and Foreign Minister Riad would like to proceed undisturbed on the road they have now embarked upon toward a "political" or treaty-based settlement with Israel. But this does not mean that Cairo will become more flexible in such key issues as the occupied territories. Some of the more militant elements may have now been shoved into the background, but they will inquestionably be heard from again if the Middle East peace efforts do not succeed.

-From the Neue Zuercher Zeitung (Zurich).

The Europe Troop-Cut Plan

The strength of the opposition to Senator Mansfield's proposals, which includes ex-Presidents Johnson and Truman as well as several former secretaries of state and defense, makes it unlikely that the controversial amendments will be passed by Congress. Even if it gets through the Senate, it will probably be thrown out by the House of Representatives, But the continuing pressure in favor of American troop withdrawals should serve as a warning to Europe. The time has clearly come for the European members of NATO to consider how to organize their present complete dependence on the United States. It is the kind of long-term European problem which could well be discussed profitably by Mr. Heath and President Pompidou at their meeting later this week.

A Marked Change

Things are a little quieter in

Here he is at 74, after a career

ing on new bilateral compromises with the Soviet Union. All this raises some fundamental questions for the Nixon administration. Whatever happened to the idea that the United States and Canada would follow a common foreign policy? What is the meaning of the Canadian prime minister's action in making an 11,000-mile tour through the USSR before he has ventured into such a journey in the United States? How do you reconcile a Chinese Communist Embassy in Ottawa-with American journalists and scholars coming here to get visas for Peking-with the obvious fact that there is no Peking embassy in Washington? Something is obviously changing here. The Canada of Trudeau is obviously more national-istic than the Canada of Pearson was, just a short while ago. The commercial domination of Canada by the United States increases, but the confidence and trust of Canada in the United States, after Vietnam, decreases.

More Troubled

After all the disorder, draftdodging and drug problems of the last few years in the U.S., Canada is clearly more troubled about the United States today than it has been for many years. Meanwhile, the Canadian people are deeply divided at home. A visitor is startled to find thoughtful Canadians talking seriously aboot French Canada breaking away completely from the rest of Canada, and even about the dismemberment of the Canadian nation. So there is a dual problem.

Not only a difference between Ottawa and Washington about how to deal with Peking and Moscow but, even more important, a separatist movement in Canada itself, which could create vast new political disorders within the whole of North America. Even the most thoughtful men Wants More Expensive Mark Mr. Schiller wants the dollar driven down as part of his plan to restore economic stability. He wants to make the mark more expensive in relation to other trading currencies to help stem inflation here.

The conflict led to reportsand denials that bank president Karl Klasen was on the verge of resigning.

Tension had built up between the bank and the government when Bonn floated the mark in opposition to Mr. Elasen and the majority on the bank coun-CL

This persisted as the, bank, refused to flood the market with $5 billion in "hot" money which entered the country in the four months preceding the float operation.

Showdown Meeting. The meeting took on the nature of a showdown between Mr. Schiller, who last week took over the Finance Ministry in addition to the Economics job, and Mr. Klasen: What happened behind closed doors in the bank's Frankfurt headquarters was so confidential that Mr. Schiller did not even tell the cabinet.

This was an attempt to prevent leaks in the notoriously holefilled Bonn political scene. A government spokesman pointed out that there was no need to fully inform cabinet members who were not directly concerned with financial policy. He gave assur-ances, however, that Mr. Schiller had informed Chancellor Willy

Brandt. The dollar closed slightly weaker at 3.5290 marks after opening at 3.5375 on the Frankfurt money market today, but there was no evidence that the Bundesbank was unloading. Speculation was that the bank and government were still at odds on the best way of getting 'rid of the dollars which have created serious problems of liquidity here, despite the reported agreement. This speculation was fed by Both currencies were revalued when the mark was floated, The higher the deutsche mark goes, as Mr. Klasen is well aware, the more difficult it becomes to bring it back to the old parity of 3.66 to the dollar. Mr. Timm said first-quarter consolidated group sales rose 13 percent from 2.258 billion DM in the 1970 period while at the parent, volume increased 9.5 percent from 1.141 billion DM. Actual first-quarter figures were not given.

Capital spending dropped in the first quarter to 234 million DM for the group and 98 mil-lion DM for the parent, down from 332 million DM and 182 million DM, respectively.

Dow Chemical is an equal partner of BASF in Phriz-Werke of Hamburg, a manufacturer of man-made fibers. Because of its continued heavy losses, both partners have already written off their interest in Phriz.

Mr. Timm told the meeting that all fiber manufacturing at Phriz will be halted.

By Vartanig G. Vartan NEW YORK, May 19 (NYT).-Prices on the New York Stock Exchange edged higher today in a cautious creep-and-crawl session amid low volume. The turnover of 11.74 million shares was the lowest since the 10.01 million on Jan. 4.

> The recent sharp rise in short-term interest rates-along with forecasts that the prime lending rate may soon be raised from 5 1/2 percent—secounted for much of the caution.

Market observers said that another reason for the volume slowdown is the relatively small amount of cash remaining in the hands of mutual funds, Many money managers were big buyers of stock during the huge November-to-May rise in the market. But the end of the two-day

Conoco Buys North Sea Interest

Norske Conoco AS, Continental Oil Co's exploration subsidiary in Norway, has acquired a 50 percent interest in more than 1.5 million acres of the Norwegian North Sea sector and is to drill three exploratory oil wells, two of them this summer. The area, 40 to 120 miles northeast of the Ekofisk field, was originally held by subsidiaries of Texaco and Standard Oil Co. of California, each of which retains a 25 percent interest in the field. If a discovery is made, Conoco says, the Norwegian government can exercise an option for up to a 10 percent interest in the licenses, which could reduce Conoco's share to 40 percent.

Blackwood and Gerber are deceptively simple conventions. They both have various builtin possibilities for abuse and confusion.

Exactly when four no-trump should be natural, for example, is a question no expert has ever answered satisfactorily. There are many obscure situations in which ambiguity can creep in, and disrupt even a well-established partnership.

In the disgramed suction South has opened one club and jumped to two no-trump over his partner's one-spade response, Would four no-trump by North now be Blackwood? Experts would say no. A raise of one no-trump or two no-trump to four no-trump is always natural, although some raises of three notrump to four may be arguable. Whether the four-club jump over two no-trump should be resarded as Gerber is distinctly debatable, especially since South has bid clubs. Luckily for North and South they were on the same wavelength.

North and South bid well to reach the grand slam. North's jump to four clubs was a natural move toward slam, and South interpreted it as such. If North had wanted to ask about aces, he would have made a bid at the three-level and followed with four no-trump.

This was one of the rare situations in which it is appropriate for a player who has bid no-trump naturally to bid four no-trump conventionally.

South's purpose in bidding four no-trump and five no-trump was not so much to find out about North's aces and kings as to inform North that all the aces are present and that a grand slam seems possible. The South hand, with every high card pulling its weight, was as good

JUST keep it up and see where it gets you: this is the mes-sage of the futuristic novel. It of psychic fallout drifts sage of the futuristic novel. It takes, our present behavior and carries it to its logical conclusion, which almost invariably turns out to be a reductio ad absurdum. The futuristic novelist is more interested in ideas than people. His characters are merely manikins for a moral; they wear it like an ill-fitting suit or dress. In "Love in the Ruins," Walker Percy has worked hard to avoid this dehumanization. His hero. Thomas More, is almost redundantly human. To demonstrate that he exists, the anthor has given him satyriasis, psychosis, lapsed Catholicism, large bowel complaints, alcoholism and hives. He fairly itches with humanity. All the same, he is a charming fellow, an appealing tragicome-dian who is closely related to Percy's hero in his first novel, "The Moviegoer," which woo the National Book Award ten years ago. By Alan Truscott We meet More in the 1980s, as he is preparing to save the people of the United States from the consequences of our contemporary fooliahness. The whole country is violently polarized: black and white, liberal and conservative, dropout and Establishment. We have been involved in the war in "Ecuador" for 15 years and there is no sign of a resolution. The country is crumbling into ruins because no oce wants to be a repairman anymore. Under such circumstances. conservatives have begun to fall, victim to "unseasonable rages and large bowel complaints." Liberals are more apt to contract "sexual impotence, morning terror, and a feeling of abstraction of the self from the self." A ne'er-do-well physician and psychiatrist. More, is tinkering toward a machine to treat these. symptoms. His "lapsometer" enables him to locate and measure areas of psychic imbalancelapses-in the brain, but it can only diagnose, not cure. For treatment, More is forced to rely on homely, rule-of-thumb remedies. When Ted Tennis, for example, becomes so abstracted from himself that he cannot make love to his wife, the doctor prescribes "recovery of the self-through ordeal." He orders Ted to walk home from work through. Stars Win ABA Title As Beaty Scores 36

SALT LAKE CITY, May 19 (TPI) -Center Zeimo Beaty tossed in 36 points last night to lead the Utah Stars to a 131-121 victory over the Kentucky Co!onels and the American Basketball Association title,

After trailing 32-28 at the end of the first period, the Stars raced to a 61-54 half-time advantage. Utah gradually upped its lead in the second half,

The Stars led, 93-81, with 1:55 remaining in the third period before Darrel Carrier, who scored 31, hit a trio of three-point mais in less than a minute to cut the Utah lead to 98-90 at the start of the fourth period. The Stars outscored the Colonels 33-31 in the final period to maintain a season-long domination over the Colonels at the Salt Palace. Kentucky was never able to win a game in Salt Lake City during the past season.

Beaty hit 18 points in each half. Wise contributed 22, Combs 20 and Mery Jackson 19.

Hoppichler Stays As Ski Professor For Austrians (AP).-The executive committee of the Austrian Ski Federation has reinstated professor Franz. Hoppichler for a one-year term as Austrian national siti coach after previously refusing to prolong his contract.

Utah threatened to make the game a runaway by moving to a 10-1 lead at the start, But Cincy Powell, who finished with 19, and Dan Issel, who scored 41, began to find the range. An Issel basket tied the score at 18-18 with six minutes to go in

Lonborg Returns as Winner

Beats Tigers in Relief

By Sam Goldaper NEW YORK, May 19 (NYT). -It was almost like 1967 all over again for Jim Lonborg at Fenway Park in Boston last night. The right-hander, 28, heard once more the kind of cheers he received when he won 22 games in that pennant season. A crowd of 13,021 gave him a standing ovation on his return to the major leagues.

Lonborg, on the comeback trail, responded with a victory in his first appearance this season, entering the game in relief in the seventh inning and pitching hitless ball the last three innings as the Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers, 5-3.

"I can do more than I could in 1967," he said. "Tve learned how to plich, how to use changes of speeds, how to become a more effective pitcher Lonborg had been plagued by injuries since he led Boston to Atlanta to an early five-run lead, and it withstood a late New York the pennant four years ago. He indicated he was physically sound again by posting a 4-3 won-lost recard at Louisville. "I worked hard down there, Mets. Aaron rapped his 13th homer of the year in the first

Giants Winning Games But Not Gaining Fans

By Bill Becker

LOS ANGELES, May 19 (NYT),-Is this at last the Giants' year? And will San Francisco-the city and its team-finally cradicate a second-best complex?

Willie Mays and his reinforced supporting cast are off to the best start since the Glants moved West from the Polo Grounds in 1958. San Francisco leads the National League West by 8 1 2 games.

Yet San Francisco fans have lagged. Home attendance averaged less than 12,000 for the first 17 dates at Condicstick Park,

The total was 203,217, only 20,000 ahead of the first 17 dates in 1970, when the Giants drew only 875,000 all year, prompting rumors owner Horace Stoneham might move the franchise again,

The capacity at Candlestick has been reduced to about 31,000 this season while the breezy park is being double-decked. By the time the 49ers move in for football, capacity will be 60,000, compared to the former 42,500.

"Mr. Stoneham had no serious thought about moving the club." Gary Schumacher, Glants' public relations director, said by phone. "We like it here."

Break-Eveo Point

Stoneham is persuaded the renovations will also remove red ink. The prospects of returning to the one-million mark in attendance-considered the break-even point, with the Giant's heavy payroll-are promising if the team keeps rolling.

Not since 1962 have the Giants won the pennant. That year they drew 1.6 million. They have been slumping steadily at the gate, with mostly second-place teams.

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, the Dodgers, with four pennant winners, have been below the 1.6 million mark just once in 14 seasons. This year Los Angeles has drawn 371,380 in 19 home dates-46,000 ahead of 1970, despite playing .500 ball.

With Willie Mays hitting and Juan Marichal coming back to help Gaylord Perry on the mound, the Giants figured to improve. big boost has been the discovery of a shortstop old Chris Speier.

PARDS, May 19 (AP) .-- Max the middleweight, who said he packed enough underwear for five months of "shlepping" through the Unit-ed States, is back home again, his great American money hunt lasting exactly three weeks.

His wife is happy, his buddles in the couscous parlors off Rue du Faubourg-Montmartre are happy, but Max Cohen? Max is what the French newspapers call "désabusé"-disillusioned. He was the last of the Jewish prizefighters, the only Cohen who ever got a gold medal from Nasser at the Pan-Arab Games, and nobody in all that rich fat country was lin-ing up to make Max a millionaire. Every morning," Cohen said, describing his stay in Seattle, "I would get up, go to the win-dow, open it wide and breathe inthe dollars. That's all I got: A. sniff."

Cohen said he received a number of offers for other bouts after winning a clear decision over Frazer Scott, but that he didn't think much of them. Max said, "They were offering me $3,000-$4,000 to go best my head against some guy in Chicago. I get more than that, double that, in Paris, where they give me a percentage of the house. If they boxed me in New York and gave me a per-centage, they'd have to turn over title to a couple of blocks of Fifth Avenue to me. So instead. I baxed in Seattle and a nice guy in the clothing business gave me a suit. But it didn't quite fit and I didn't get rich. Here I am.* To know Max Cohen is not necessarily to love, love, love him, but he is painfully honest. I didn't go to marry the United States did I?" Max asked. "People at Jean-Claude Barclay, received me beautifully, they were very nice. I got invited to three temples. That was real hospitality. But every time someone hits me, I want to think I'm getting paid.

Over there I want to get paid enough because there are other problems " Max, who started life in a

After Hoppichler's ouster last month, the Austrian ski situation seemed in a state of confusion as no one wanted to take the job.

Besides extending Hoppichler's contract, the executive committee ruled that by the end of Sep-tember, 1971, Hoppichler's suc-cessor had to be nominated. This should give the new man a chance to learn his job under Hoppichler's guidance,

Double-Play Combo

Speler, after one year in the Texas League, is dazzling afield and is hitting 293. He is teaming with The Fuences, second base-man, to give the Giants their best double-play makers in years. The Giants turned in 42 in 34 games.

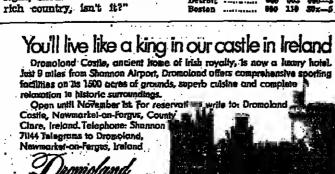

Along with Oakland, the pacesetters in the American League West, the Giants are stirring some talk of baseball's first all-California World Series. The cross-Bay Athletics have averaged only 9,000 per game at home so far,

The thought of such a series prompts another question: Would anybody except the television audience watch it?

Art Buchwald

Save Governor Reagan

WASHINGTON - No matter is therefore eligible for free legal W how I try, I can't stop worrying about Gov. Ronald Reagao's personal financial situstion. As everyone knows by now, Goy, Reagan had such bad financial reverses last year that he didn't have to pay state income taxes. Instead of Californians sympathizing with him over these financial reverses, they became upset and felt there was something wrong hecause they had to pay taxes and Reagan didn't.

Very few people in the state Buchwald said. "If the gor. ernor makes $44,000 a year aa salory and has assets of around $1 million and still can't pay his atate income taxes then he must be hurting very badly, and needs plty rather than censure." My first thought was that the governor should seek legal aid from the local Office of Economic Opportunity. Although Mr. Reagan is trying to abolish legal aid for the poor in California. I'm sure the poverty lawyers would take his cese anyway, just to prove that they will take anybody in dire financial straits. regardless of race, creed, or elective office,

To make sure. I telephoned a CRLA (California Rural Legal Assistance) lawyer in California and asked him if he would take Reagan as a client.

"Yes." he said, "he would qualify for free legal ald. Our charter specifically says that any governor of a state whose finaoces are in such poor shape that he doesn't have to pay personal state income taxes is in no position to pay a lawyer, and

Vines Damaged

P.EIMS, France, May 19 (AP). -About 2.500 acres of vineyards in the champagne-producing area of Reims and Epernay were heavily damaged by torrential rains and hail early this week. Damage was estimated at several million dollars. Near Daméry aod Fleury-la-Rivière, the rain completely stripped away the vines, leaving only the metal posts that had supported them.

advice. It would be our pleasure to help Gov. Reagan in any way we could."

"How would you go about it?" * * *

"From B legal standpoint it would probably be the most in-teresting case we've ever handled. Most of our cases have had to do with people who didn't pay any atate income taxes because they didn't make any money. This would be the first time we represented someone who made money but didn't pay income taxes.

"Surely there is something wrong with the system if the governor of the largest state in the union has been hurt so badly financially that he can't pay any taxes."

"But what legal defense would you have for him?" I asked. "First we would have to find out what financial reverses Mr.

Reagan had, whether they came from cattle, oil, real estate, or the stock market. Then we would prove that it wasn't his fault that his investments went sour. It was probably due to the geoeral economy. "But the Republicans are in charge of the economy right now. Wouldn't it look bad if Reagan blamed his own party for the fact he had such a had income situation?"

"I guess you're right. We'll have to think of something else. Perhaps we coold persuade the courts to allow the governor to make one motion picture a year. * * *

"Or a new 'Death Valley Days'

series," I suggested, "I was thinking of a remake of 'The Grapes of Wrath," the lawyer said. "They could shoot most of it around Sacramento, so the governor wouldn't have to be oo locatioo too long. But the important thing is to get him healthy financially so he doesn't have to eat from the public

"This thing has far more ramifications than anyone waots to admit," he said, "We're trying

Not only did the book change his life, he said in a telephone interview, it made his life. He is famous, rich and in demand

When Mr. Bernstein told Mrs. Tighe in 1954, that he was going to write a book about her trance-induced recollections of living in Ireland as Bridey Murphy from 1798 to 1864, she said she woodered: "Now who in the world would buy something like that?"

More than one million people did. The book is still selling, due to a minor revival it is enjoying with the younger generation. It is in most college librarles and is io preat demand at public libraries around America.

Even today, so long after the furor that started with the innocence of a sneeze. Mrs. Tighe is followed by the shadow of Bridey Murphy. It is a shadow, oot always welcome, that changed her life.

Earned $10,000

From the experieoce were born a certain bitterness and weariness. Mrs. Tighe was startled by the commotion and resentful of people who labeled her a kook and accused her of creating a hoax for mon-etary gain. (She made less than $10,000

"Dozens of people have asked to hypnotize me since those Bridey sessions, but

I've always said no," Mrs. Tighe recalled "I'm not sure I'd want to go through with lt sil again.

"It was not an unhappy thing, but I just never got completely absorbed by the search like some people did. I've never even read the book all the way through. I was invitcd to Hollywood for the movie, but I didn't go. I really just wanted to cling to what privacy I had left.

"I accepted the hypnotic experience as only that. An experience. I know that something happened, something unusual that was completely honest. I've kept my mind open on anything beyond that." Not everyone did, though. One youth in the South who committed suicide shortly after the book was published left a note saying he had killed himself to see if he would be reincarnated as was Bridey Murphy.

The boy's mother clipped the obituary from her local newspaper and mailed it to Mrs. Tighe with a note saying: "I hope yoo're happy oow."

Reactions

Soon after reporters uncovered the Ruth Simmons alias, strangers begao following Mrs. Tighe's children home from school. One neighbor refused to let her child play with Mrs. Tighe's daughters, claiming they were bewitched. Religious groups campaigned to discredit her.

Crank calls flooded the Tighe home in Pueblo, Colo, in such volume that the Tighes got an unlisted telephone oumber aod had to keep changing it every ten days or so for months because it was leaked out.

One magazine offered Mrs. Tighe $2,500 to authorize an article entitled, How Bridey Murphy Ruined My Life."

She refused. And she rejected the other offers that arrived by the boxful, worth on face value hundreds of thousaods of dollars. She granted no interviews for years. Nor did she ever go to Ireland to cootimue the search her subconscious mind had started.

"I figured that if I agreed to do one thing, then I'd have to do them all and I didn't want that," she said.

The Bridey Murphy affair, Mrs. Tighe said, left oo psychological scars on her or her daughters. She has oever seen a psychiatrist and she considers herself a normal, well-adjusted person.

After publication of Mr. Bernstein's book, there were scores of articles claiming to refute the story. The most quoted exposé appeared in the Chicago American newspaper and was widely accepted by several mass-circulation publications, including Life magazine, as the definitive disclaimer, But Mr. Bernstein and Mrs. Tighe dismissed the exposes as having heen based oo half-truths, inaccuracies or unfounded surmise. It was not true, they said, that what she recalled under hypnosis were the tales of a relative who had filled her with Irish lore as a child-one of the most commoo explanations offered for her atory. Mrs. Tighe said that she met Mr. Bernstein at a party in Puehlo. She agreed to let him treat her allergies, the most serious of which was incessant sneezing, with hypnosis.

Her sneezing stopped. And as her trance deepened and Mr. Bernstein led her back in time during six hypnotic sessions spanning 18 mooths, Mrs. Tighe related in a thick Irish brogue her life as Bridey Murphy, her marriage to Sean Briao Mac-Carthy, son of a Cork lawyer, Joho Carrigan's store where she traded, her death and burial in 1864.

"Certainly, I still have doubts." Mrs. Tighe said. "I have come to accept the fact only that it is possible the reincarnation was not impossible. But I would oever sit aere and tell anyone that I am the reincarnation of Bridey Murphy." One thing Mrs. Tighe does know. If reincarnation is possible, oext time she waots to come back as Mrs. Cary Grant, C Los Angeles Times

Absolutely, Ma'am. You are familiar, of course, with the motto: "Britannia Rules the Wabes"?

Further proof, moreover, from the Beirut Daily Star (courtesy of Dean Turner): "BRITISH COLUMBIA (AP)-Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip got away from the city Tuesday and head-ed through the forested wonder-laud of Vancouver Island. They watched loggers scramble up a spar pole, 5 feet high, appearing from a distance like ants on a skyscraper." Like, from Montreal?

Mercifully changing the subject, we think, Dean continues: "Just to add my pungeot comment to the current dialogue oo cow chips, back in my native Idaho they were referred to as 'pastura pattles.' However, my favorite is a term I heard in California's Coachallia Valley (you remember Rudy's sister, the one that was so crazy about football?). There they're referred to as 'meadow muffins."
